dated 13 April 1960

1. On 13 May 1960 AEDOGMA-1 passed the following German language reports in response to the reference request. These reports in translation are forwarded herewith:

- a. Olga ROMANTICHUK
- b. Yaroslav HLADKY (See also EGMA-5169, 22 April 1953.)
- c. Lubomir HLADKY
- d. Volodymyr HAVRYLAK
- e. Tamara HMYCHUK
- f. Helene HUNTER
- g. Personal Note to

2. AEDOGMA-1 seemed to be in good spirits, although he was bothered by the paralysis in his legs. This condition is somewhat less severe than it would appear. AEDOGMA-1 can walk without severe pain; he can not, however, feel any sensations along the outside of his thighs. He plans to spend the week of 16 May on vacation near Bayrisch Zell and return to Paris before the end of May 1960.

3. In passing we asked AEDOGMA-1 if he had heard any rumors about a being seen in Munich. His answer was negative. For Paris's background, was a MOB controlled double agent who was recalled to the Soviet Union by the RIS in mid-1956. MOB informant and low level AECVATINA employee who has been terminated, reported on 12 May 1960 that he had seen in Munich early in May. This is most unlikely and ties in all too neatly with's precarious financial condition. Although we are almost completely certain that was only trying to make himself interesting when he gave us the story, we decided to ask AEDOGMA-1 if he had heard anything from his various AECVATINA contacts about. Note that the AECVATINA organization was very suspicious of before his disappearance from Munich and apparently were giving serious consideration to plans for taking executive action against AEDOGMA-1 was cautioned to make no conspicuous effort to find out if anyone had seen. Please note AEDOGMA-1 is unaware of our relationship to either or.

4. In order to enable AEDOGMA-1 to pay his doctor bills in Munich, he was given a 1,000 DM advance.

SUBJECT: OGA HOWESEN, P-116

Unfortunately I am not in a position to report anything new about Subject:

I only know that Subject's family moved during my absence. They moved into a three-room apartment in Paris. Before that they had lived in a single room at 2 rue Jussu, Paris 5.

ATTACHMENT B TO MEMO-52155

SUBJECT: Karolav BLADKY, currently in the U.S.A.

Subject was from November 1939 on the deputy chief of the Ukrainian section of the German Intelligence Service in Krakau (Abwehrstelle III). When the chief of this section, Eugen VHEICHA, was transferred to Lemberg in July 1942, Subject took over the leadership of the section. From July, 1941 until about July, 1942, Subject served on the Eastern front with the GIB (Abwehrkommando III-Abwehrgruppe IV). In July 1942 he returned from the East front to Krakau, where he was chief of the Ukrainian section of the GIB in Krakau until the end of the war.

Without exaggeration I must state that Subject was absolutely one of the best of the Ukrainian Intelligence operators. He is a highly intelligent man, very calm and balanced, of character beyond reproach, and a great idealist. Subject possesses great talent in dealing with people, whose friendship he almost immediately wins. He is an excellent psychologist and observer of human nature. His logic is very strict and exact. He has great powers of concentration. As a mechanical engineer he is accustomed to think exactly and logically and always executes his work with precision. During his work for the GIB in Krakau he did not have one single failure because he always considered each action most carefully before its execution. At that time he was very familiar with Soviet espionage activities and methods. It is possible that at the present he is a little behind in this regard since he has not had contact with this activity for several years.

During his duty with the GIB in Krakau he used the cover names, Josef TATACEK, Josef WAGNER, and Jupp.

ATTACHMENT C TO MEMO-192165

SUBJECT: Lubomyr MIANYK, aka LUBRIK

Subject is the younger brother of Yaroslav MIANYK, and is by profession a forester.

From 1939 on he was employed by German Intelligence Service in Krakau. (Abwehrstelle III-Krakau). In 1940 or the beginning of 1941 he was sent to Western Ukraine, Lemberg, by the GIB.

He remained there until June 1941, that is, until the German troops occupied Lemberg.

After the occupation of the Western Ukraine Subject worked for the GIB in Lemberg. In 1942 or the beginning of 1943 he was assigned to GIB in Krakau, where he remained until the end of the war. In contrast to his brother, Subject is a very temperamental man. He is nevertheless very intelligent, although fairly well impressed with himself. Something adventurous is reflected from his being. In contrast to his brother material matter plays no small role for Subject. He knows his capabilities, knows what he can do and requests for that an appropriate fee.

He is polite to other people, but capable of expressing his opinion in a vulgar fashion and defending himself correspondingly.

Subject is not a bad intelligence operator but his capabilities lie well below the level of his brother's.

Subject's cover name with the GIB in Krakau was Kraemer.

SUBJECT: VOLODYMYR HAHNICKI

Subject, the Ukrainian journalist in Paris, was arrested in Paris on 8 March 1960 with other Ukrainians and sent to Corsica.

His arrest was a surprise for all Ukrainians in Paris because they knew that Subject was employed by the French Intelligence Service.

During his stay on Corsica he attempted, in a fairly conspicuous way, to investigate the operations of the arrestees. Apparently he was doing this at the behest of the PIZ. His platform was, however, that he came together with Mikola PIZ, the director of Stroh OAG. PIZ warned not only the Ukrainians about Subject but also the Hungarians, Poles and Soviets. He said that Subject was an PIZ agent sent to Corsica for the sole purpose of investigating the mood of the arrestees. From this point on all the arrestees were extremely cautious with Subject in all conversations. Subject noticed this changed attitude immediately.

After two weeks, shortly before the arrival of Khrushchev in Paris, Subject was released from arrest with two other Ukrainians, Professor Pavlo SCHIMBERG and Michail KOVALSKI, and returned to Paris.

Even today people know why Subject was released ahead of time.

SUBJECT: Tamara KATCHUK, 6 Rue Guy Moquet, Chateaufort/Seine

Subject was the only Ukrainian girl who was arrested in Paris on 6 March 1960 and sent to Corsica.

In Corsica she developed vigorous political activity. She was named the interpreter to the foreign journalists for the Ukrainian group.

She gave interviews to German, American, English, Italian, Spanish and Polish journalists. During these interviews she spoke mostly of herself and told all why she was forcibly taken to Corsica. She said that she was uncomfortable to the Communists, since she had lived for some time under Soviet administration in the Ukraine and later in Poland, and therefore understands all methods of Soviet propaganda very well indeed and knows how best to counteract Soviet propaganda.

SUBJECT: Helene MAYER, 235 Rue de la Convention, Paris 15.

In March 1960, Subject returned in good health from a month's stay in a neurological sanatorium in Göttingen.

Immediately after her return she began intensive preparations for her last examinations, which will take place in June at the Sorbonne.

Her trip to Moscow planned for the beginning of next year depends upon the degree of success with which she passes the examinations.

Munich, the 14th May 1960

Dear Mr. Tom,

Attached hereto I am sending you the requested reports. I am aware that they are fairly short, but here in Munich I have had no possibility to find out anymore.

I am still not completely well, and I am now being treated by Professor Doctor Geets and Professor Doctor Koebcke. While my wounds are almost healed both my feet are partially paralyzed. At the moment I am receiving daily vitamin injections.

I hope, however, that we will see each other in Paris by the end of May. When I am in Paris I will call you immediately.
